UNUSUAL ACTIVITY

Drive Off Counter-attacks and Re-take Several Points Which Germans Had Recaptured During Fierce Fighting.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The Sixty-fifth Congress reconvened here today for its second and "long" session, with the leaders prepared to stay here until next autumn.

As is the special war session, which ended Oct. 6, prosecution of the war is the principal business of the session. Today's opening meeting session was, as usual, brief and preliminary, accompanied by the ordinary scenes of new session—handing of letters, and much bustle and confusion. After appointment of committees by both bodies to notify President Wilson and each other of their daily meeting hour at 12 o'clock, the senate and house adjourned until tomorrow out of respect to members who died during recess. Senator Hastings of Wisconsin and Representative Martin of Illinois.

Arrangements will be made tomorrow for a joint session, probably Wednesday, to hear President Wilson's address, expected to largely define the legislative program. Organization of both senate and house under democratic control has been completed at the special session. The senate was ready to plunge into the mass of waiting business. Legislation, however, is not expected to get into full swing until next week, after the Christmas recess, although there is some agitation to forego the holiday.

Tomorrow will come the initial flood of bills, resolutions and petitions. Among the latter are many petitions for the release of prisoners of war, and the expulsion of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin for alleged disloyalty. His speech last September in St. Paul, Minn., was controversial, and the senate privileges and elections committee in connection with a subcommittee's investigation.

General miscellaneous legislation is to come immediately before congress, possibly including some measures affecting this country's course in the war in view of widespread sentiment among returning members for legislation to bring again Germany and Austria-Hungary into the war, and Bulgaria. Congress is expected, however, to follow the views of the president in this respect.

Appropriation measures will require much time. Fourteen general and probably several special supply bills for the fiscal year beginning July, 1918, as well as estimates of needs, are to be considered, probably immediately after New Year's. Two bills, the legislative, executive and judicial and district of Columbia measures, already are under consideration.

Political affairs will come in for much consideration during the session, with considerable speculation in view of general congressional elections next fall, at which thirty-two senators, nineteen democrats and thirteen republicans, and the entire house membership are to be chosen. Many members believe that the political campaign necessities will shorten the session.

The democrats start the session in control of both senate and house with fifty-two democrats and republicans against forty-three republicans, with one seat for each body vacant. In the senate, Senator Hastings of Wisconsin and Representative Martin of Illinois.

Several new members joined the house today. Representative Lufkins, Republican, of the sixth Massachusetts district succeeding Augustus E. Gardner, Republican, of the fourth district. Representative Deshler, Democrat, of the twenty-eighth Pennsylvania district, succeeding former Representative Bleakley, Republican, who died last year. Representative Merritt, Republican, of the fourth Connecticut district, succeeding Representative Ebenezer Hill, Republican, deceased.

Important war legislation expected to come before the present session includes measures to give the president further authority, especially over enforcement of universal military training, and measures to meet labor conditions. Chief among domestic concerns are prohibition and womanhood suffrage. Sheppard's amendment, whose submission was approved Aug. 1 by the senate, 66 to 20, will be pressed in the house, while both bodies will be urged to prove submission of the so-called Susan B. Anthony amendment for equal suffrage, which has been favorably reported to the senate calendar.

Speaker Clark soon will appoint a chairman for the new house committee on general legislation pending because of its exclusion from the last special war session are the Webb bill permitting exporters to combine in foreign trade, which has twice passed the house, and is the senate's unfinished business; the Shields water-power development bill; the Walsh-Pittman oil and coal leasing measure, and the Colombian treaty, proposing payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia.

The administration soldiers and sailors civil rights bill, which passed the house last session but failed to be taken through the senate, judiciary committee, up by the senate, in the nature of moratorium, suspending court processes

BOLSHEVIKI LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

NOTHING DEFINITE REGARDING MISSION OF REPRESENTATIVES HAS BEEN ANNOUNCED TO PEOPLE.

DEMOLISH THE ARMY

Bolsheviks Have Begun the Demolition of the Army—Provisional Government Has Reappeared.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

While the Bolshevik representatives plan to enter the German lines Sunday and begin negotiations with the Germans, nothing has been reported of their mission. The Bolshevik leader Trotsky has warned the allied diplomats in Petrograd his government will not permit them to interfere in the internal affairs of Russia especially as to giving advice to General Duhonin. The demoralization of the Russian army by the Bolsheviks is reported to have been begun. The Russian provisional government reappeared and issued a manifesto. It is the only legal authority. It urges the people to disobey the decrees of the Bolsheviks.

RUSSIA LIKENED TO MEXICO BY DIPLOMAT

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Paris, Dec. 3.—If America would understand that Russia is no more fit for self-government than Mexico and that the men now directing its destinies are not as well versed in statecraft as the men who directed the Carranza government, they would realize the immensity of the task of whipping Russia into a governmental unit that will be helpful to the allies.

A French diplomat, who had been attached to the French embassy in Petrograd and had recently returned to Paris, was describing to a small group of American conditions as they existed in Russia.

"You should remember," he continued, "that the Russian is more oriental than European. Government to him is a matter of some men, and that principle. You all know Mexico, and I was with our legation in Mexico City for two years. The Mexican people is a Villista, a Carranzist, a Zapalita, always a follower of some man. His fighting for anything politically concrete, but follows his leader to which ever side he may drift."

"The Russian moujik is a counter-part to the Mexican peon. He is a true perspective of Russia because she is a follower of some man. The Russian peasant at heart has a distrust for England, and at present, I believe a certain confidence in the czar as the 'little father,' a tangible personality whom he more or less defied, rather than the mere head of a form of government still continue to dominate the country."

"It is necessary that America get a true perspective of Russia because she is the only country that can help her. The Russian peasant at heart has a distrust for England, and at present, I believe a certain confidence in the czar as the 'little father,' a tangible personality whom he more or less defied, rather than the mere head of a form of government still continue to dominate the country."

"Accordingly, it is only America that can bring Russia to a realization of the part it should yet play in the war against Germany. Today there is no denying the fact that the czar and is at a loss to know just exactly why it is fighting. The European belligerents may well be suspected of her of having some ulterior aims. America stands above suspicion."

Washington, Dec. 3.—The production of oleomargarine both as a war measure to increase the production of food fats and as a means of actually yielding more aggregate revenue will be recommended by the annual report of the international revenue issued today. Another recommendation promoted by war condition was the government should assume control of the production of oleomargarine.

The reports cited the $809,333,000 international revenue receipt for fiscal year ending last June 30, the lowest in the history of the bureau but would not be broken by the estimated receipt for the current year, which would be $840,000,000, the new war tax law of $5,400,000,000, the greatest source of revenue was the duty on liquor and the production of this showed marked increase.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Deputy United States Marshal William Teuton, night arrested a manufacturer of that place, Dohi, a manufacturer of that place, who is alleged to have uttered a treasonable opinion concerning the president. PREDICTS A VICTORY FOR CENTRAL POWERS

Amsterdam, Dec. 3.—General Von Ludendorff, right hand man of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, is quoted by a Vienna correspondent as making the prediction at German headquarters that the war will not end in a draw, but will be decided in favor of the central powers. The Vienna dispatch says this expression was obtained in conversations with him during a visit to headquarters, where he also talked with Hindenburg and said that the Russians are the first to be inclined for peace, Von Ludendorff says.

"It appears the Russians are the first to be inclined for peace," General Von Ludendorff said. "I will not say I regard the Bolshevik manifestation as a peace offer," he continued. "There must be a secure guarantee for the support one who possesses power to enforce internally and externally the result of the negotiations with us. Of course we can conclude an armistice with Russia at any time as soon as we have the assurance it will be maintained. A general armistice, however, will be difficult to achieve."

General Von Ludendorff expressed belief that the general armistice would interrupt submarine activity and allow the entente to improve its position while on the other hand no supplies would reach the central powers. The Russian revolution not a mere piece of luck for the central power, but the result of their military situation would suffer.

General Ludendorff considered the Russian revolution not a mere piece of luck for the central power, but the result of their military situation would suffer.

"Modern war," said the general, "is a war of people, not of armies, and a war ends when an enemy people is exhausted. There are no decisive battles as in former wars. The battles merely have indirect influence on the whole national system, inducing decay and collapse."

The impression that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Von Ludendorff desired a peace which would be a condition of security and stability as far as possible, one which will bring with it a secure frontier and free economic activity on land and sea.

With reference to the Russian army Field Marshal Von Hindenburg gave to the correspondent his opinion that no more military activity on a large scale could be expected from it. He thought it possible, however, "that some desperate officer, the Grand Duke Nicholas might seize the power and incite the war-weary Russian army to a final effort."

HOLD LINE AGAINST A LARGE ARMY

CONGRESS CONVENED TODAY IN REGULAR SESSION, DURATION OF WHICH CANNOT BE ESTIMATED.

Back Up the President is the Slogan Heard—His War Message Will be Delivered Tuesday at the Joint Session.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Violent German efforts to wipe out the salient before Cambrai have brought little success as General Byng has withstood successfully for three days all attempts to break through. About Gonnehe the Germans have gained light terrain at heavy cost. The British had evacuated Masnières south of Cambrai. The Germans have suffered very heavy losses in dead and wounded and the British have taken many hundred prisoners.

No impression. West of Cambrai embracing Boulton Wood the dominating position in this region, the Germans have made no impression on the British positions, nor have they used their artillery ground between Boulton Wood and Meuvens, the north side of the salient.

Ten heavy attacks against the region of Masnières were defeated by British with losses for the attackers but a sharp salient involving the village made its abandonment necessary.

Northwest of Masnières toward Gonnehe the Germans still hold La Seaquarie where it is said the dead in 12 hours have numbered more than and similar period since the beginning of the war.

Sunday Fighting. The British have reached Gonnehe and fighting was in progress Sunday and around the village. In this region the Germans used four or five divisions Friday and attacked in massed formation Saturday, and Sunday at least six or seven divisions were used in their fruitless effort to break the northern end of the salient.

American Engineers. American engineers operating and building railroads in this region. On the line near Boucaucourt southwest of Gonnehe were caught in the first rush of German attack. Many sought shelter in shell holes, from which they were rescued by British counter-attacks. The engineers aided the British in withstanding attacks and went on patrol duty. Several were captured by the Germans but later managed to escape.

Northeast of Ypres in Flanders the British captured fortified buildings and German strong points on the ridge north of Passchendaele. On the under of the front artillery continues active. The German Crown Prince has not repeated his attack in the Verdun region.

Front. On more of the Italian front the infantry remain inactive while the artillery is engaged in violent bombardment along the Piave river. On the line near the Italians withstood a local German attack against Monte Maletta, while near Monte Kertica the Italians made a light advance.

St. Paul, Dec. 3.—Street car service in this city, which was abandoned last night after a fire had been wrecked by several hundred union sympathizers, was resumed today. The first cars to leave the barn were followed by autos containing members of the fire department. There was no interference and by early forenoon it was said almost normal service was being maintained.

St. Paul, Dec. 3.—The night home guards patrolled the downtown section of the city and assisted the police in maintaining order. The guards continued on duty today.

No aid in street car men in their controversy with the Twin City Rapid Transit Co. The St. Paul Trade and Labor assembly called a convention of all street car men in the Twin City. The convention meets Wednesday. This action was regarded in union circles as placing power to a general assembly in the hands of the disposal of union car men.

St. Paul, Dec. 3.—Governor Philipps today received the following telegram from General Crowder: "Between now and December 15th, it is desired to afford registrants as wide an opportunity as possible to enlist in both the army and navy. Therefore, any registrant, even though he has been called by his local board to report for examination, may enlist under the draft law in connection with the army and navy. It is the duty of the local board to the recruiting officer of a certificate from his local board he will not be needed to fill in the preferred percentage of the board. Regardless of the examination of registrants under the new regulations, each board should keep available and should reserve permission to enlist to a sufficient number of selected men to complete their quotas under their preferred percentages."

St. Paul, Dec. 3.—The Saxon finance minister during the budget debate in the Saxon Diet according to dispatch from Berlin, has declared that Germany must demand a large indemnity without bothering which of her adversaries should pay it adding "Let them only think of America."

TWO BILLION DOLLAR THRIFT CAMPAIGN ON

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] Washington, Dec. 3.—Uncle Sam today set in motion another great "win-the-war" money campaign to catch the nation's vagabond 25-cent pieces. It was the formal launching of the new $2,000,000,000 war savings certificates plan.

If you have a quarter you don't know what to do with today—or any day during the next year—drop into a post office, or your bank, or even some department store or railroad station in your town, and buy a "thrifty stamp." Take home as a nest egg, and "watch it grow." When you get sixteen of them, go back to the post office and cash them in for five war savings certificates, then 32 for ten, and so on. Something which cost you $4.12 and which you can cash in five years hence—when your money has helped whip the Boche—for exactly $5.

To help you save the thrifty stamps, the postoffice will furnish you free with a "thrifty card" bearing sixteen alluring spaces for the 25 cent stamps. If you want to buy a war savings certificate stamp outright, it will cost you $4.12 during December and January, with a penny a month added until the close of the offer at the end of 1918.

With the war savings certificate stamp you will be given another enticing card with twenty blanks. This when filled in gives a full-fledged war savings certificate, the total cost of which is $22.40 (with a penny a month per stamp added after January, 1918), and which is redeemable on January 1, 1923, for a full $100.

To help you save the plan of lending your money to the government even more attractive is the loophole offered of getting rid of the stamps or certificates for money. At any time, on ten days written notice, they will be taken in, and 3 per cent additional paid.

What emphasize it's the small cash that's wanted, the government will refuse to issue more than $100 worth of stamps at any one time, or allow any one person to hold more than $3,000 worth.

The greater part of the funds obtained under this plan will be spent within the borders of the United States.

REPORT AMBASSADOR HAS BEEN DISMISSED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Petrograd, Dec. 3.—M. Maklakoff, the Russian Ambassador to France has been declared dismissed from his post by Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevik commissary for foreign affairs. This action was taken because of the Ambassador's participation in the inter-allied conference which is considered a state offense entailing heavy penalty.

Ambassador Maklakoff, who was appointed by the Kerensky government, arrived in Paris on Nov. 7th, but up to this time has not presented his letter to the French government as he is waiting to see what happens in Russia. The inter-allied conference by special invitation and as an unofficial observer. M. Maklakoff in interview with his host, the Bolshevik press, said he predicted the fall of the Maximilians within a short time.

Madison, Dec. 3.—Arrangements were made at federal court today to have Congressman John M. Nelson to appear in court tomorrow to plead to the indictment which has been returned against him by a federal grand jury charging conspiracy with his son, Byron to evade the draft law. He is here. His son is expected during the day from Canada, where the boy operates a farm. The congressman will ask for legislative immunity from arrest.

He will ask for a speedy trial on the first indictment returned against the son, charging failure to register under the draft law. The second indictment charging conspiracy between father and son will then be tried. It is expected it will be given trial during December.

Granted Leave. Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, indicted last week charged with conspiracy to violate the draft law in connection with the failure to register, was today granted indefinite leave of absence from the house. Mr. Nelson now is at Madison in connection with his foundation in political antagonism.

REPORT THE FAILURE OF HUN ATTACK

INVADEES ARE FRUSTRATED IN THEIR ATTEMPTS TO CUT WAY THROUGH THE ITALIAN LINES.

Rome, Dec. 3.—Frustrated in their attempts to cut their way through the Italian lines on the Asiago Plateau and the Piave river, the Austro-German invaders are now trying to blast their way forward with their artillery.

In isolated districts there have been bursts of minor infantry fighting, but the struggle now raging must be classed as an artillery battle.

Advices from the front today told of a gain by the Bersaglieri in the Monte Pertica sector, but the Italians afterwards withdrew voluntarily because their new position was caught under a cross fire from enfilading guns.

Italian airmen reported fresh concentrations of Austro-German troops along the lower Piave at points where their lines lines lie nearest to Venice.

Hun Efforts Fail. The effort of the Germans to roll back the Italian defenders between Brenta and Piave valleys and to get behind the Piave line has failed utterly before the gallant resistance of the Italians and their supporters of seasoned British and French soldiers.

The invaders attempted to carry out a double movement. One column struck from Trentino and the other from Cadore, the object being to gain a footing on the "Wall" which overlooks and commands the Italian rear.

Reports Enormous Losses. Raffaele Bastianelli, who has just returned from the front where he organized the hospital service, told today of the enormous losses inflicted by the Italians. Mines were connected with the main bridge over the Piave and it was blown up while crowded with Austro-Hungarian soldiers.

Italian Army Headquarters in North Italy, Dec. 3.—Heavy firing has been reported from the front in the last 24 hours in different sectors around Monte Pertica and on Maletta range running west of the Brenta. Each of the opposing forces has made gains in position. The general condition along the entire front has improved distinctly in the last week.

The defense's position on the north line now shows no indication of those along the Piave. This with the gathering strength of the Italians has relieved the gravity of the situation. Northeast Italy is now quiet. In powerful barriers on the north and east which is considered sufficient to hold the enemy.

THIRTEEN PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM JOLIET

Joliet, Dec. 3.—Heavily armed posse are searching Will county for twelve men who escaped from the Joliet penitentiary early this morning. The men, who were caught in the "solitary," saved their way through the heavy steel bars and then overpowered Albert Cheniele and James Carlson. After binding the two guards the men escaped. The thirteen are "bad men," and had been confined in the "solitary" for refusal to obey orders.

A SPIRITUAL CRISIS.

The American Bible society, in cooperation with various religious agencies, including the Federal Council of Churches, is responsible for a campaign to equip every soldier and sailor in Uncle Sam's fighting forces with a New Testament to take with him into the trenches.

There is nothing suggestive of milk-and-water religion about the make-up of these little books—they are sturdy little volumes, and, like their owners, khaki clad.

The Washington Star maintains that American soldiers, averaging the violation of Belgium might well quote the words: "Whoever shall offend one of the least of these my little ones, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned in the uttermost depths of the sea."

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says that the United States Highlanders are called by the Germans "The Laddies from Hell," and reminds its readers that these same gallant fighters come from the most part from such homes as are pictured in Burns' "Cotter's Saturday Night," where the family patriarch reads the Bible at family worship. Burns himself, picturing the scene, says "From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs."

The church, in this campaign, is out to put militant goodness into the morale of the American fighting forces, to offer comfort in loneliness and strength in unusual temptations, and let no one say that these spiritual words are less important than the physical. Recollect that Christianity has been militant from the first, and is living now "in spite of dungeon, fire and sword."

Men today are facing a spiritual crisis. They are looking for an extra world and for a religion upon which to reconstruct a new one, when this war is over. Certainly the New Testament teachings of a kingdom founded upon justice, purity and democracy, with God as King, are impossible of realization with the Prussian spirit abroad in the world. And certainly these are the ideals toward which the whole world yearns. The American Bible society sends these ideals into the trenches with the American army. It is a purpose which patriotic, thoughtful citizens should support.

CONSERVING CHARITY.

"If we are to conserve the sources of food supply for our allies, if we are to maintain generously the relief measures of the Red Cross and the preventive efforts of organizations like the Y. M. C. A., as we are doing so freely, something must be done to conserve charity. Charity is the cornerstone of merely ornamental and flamboyantly patriotic character must be suppressed, and the giving capacity of the people directed alone to those objects which can win the war, and maintain the absolutely necessary hospital and other relief to the poor of our great cities," says an exchange.

A proposal comes from Denver, Colo., with extensive printing and a striking illustration, to erect a $1,000-odd monument to William F. Cody, on the ground that he was the last of the Scout pioneers. Buffalo Bill was a good scout, in more senses than one; and in spite of some traits open to criticism by those who knew him, was a citizen who deserved well of his country—and collected the dividends. But Cody is linked with Christopher Columbus and Daniel Boone, and a number of others, and the "patriotic" movement is made perpetual by the suggestion of an interminable chain of Pantheons throughout the country.

At any time propositions of this kind are open to the gravest criticism. They represent the exploiting of public kindness, whereby large sums are collected from sentimental people who like to see their names in print, and handily by obscure professionals who exploit the patronage in some advertising and, ultimately, although by no means necessarily, in building contracts and the purchase of land sites. This sort of thing is of questionable public usefulness at any time. But what is it in time of war, when every penny of the charitable is desperately needed?

While we are regulating food consumption and innumerable other things, Postmaster General Baileson should turn his attention to the use of the mails for enterprises of this kind. Buffalo Bill can wait indefinitely for a monument; and the rest, in common decency, can wait until after the war. The hospitals of the large cities are desperately in need of support, and are suffering from reduced income on account of diversion to France and elsewhere. Business interests give generously, but are entitled to some protection in this way.
"The method of searching the columns of 'Who's Who in America,' addressing the victim by a title which he does not possess or desire, and seeking to win his name for solicitation purposes by fulsome flattery, is detectable at any time and never so much as now. It should be stopped summarily, without respect to the feelings of those who have foolishly lent their name to such enterprises.
Do these fools realize that we are at war?" concludes the writer.

It is safe to estimate that before the Christmas holidays fully three-quarters of the first million troops Uncle Sam plans to send to Europe will be on foreign soil. One battery trained in Wisconsin during the summer just past, is now within hearing of the big guns of the French front, and others are going as fast as transportation can be obtained. The call for three million men in France, and Flanders before the end of 1918, is not boys' talk, and is going to be an actuality. Uncle Sam will play his part, and play it well.

DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP.

"More than passing attention is due the British proposal to disfranchise conscientious objectors and others who evade military duty. The principle on which it is based lies at the root of all free government. Therefrom our state and federal governments might learn," says an eastern exchange.

"To provide for the common defense" was one of the objects of our Union. This means defense from violence without and within. It means common defense from enemies banded together as nations who seek to take our birthright from us. It means also the defense of the person, property and property of the individual by a government of laws that makes him a free man.

"Because of this his wife and children are safe at home or abroad. He can walk the streets at night without fear of harm. He can engage in business where he pleases, accumulate property and be secure in the right to enjoy it. If another wrongs him in body or estate he has recourse to the courts for redress. All this is because the law, which is force restrained by conscience, covers him with its hand, as it is bound to do.
The whole power of the state will ever be summoned to protect him and his."

"Because this privilege of protection is founded upon force, which even goes to the extreme of executing a criminal, no man's conscience has yet been known to prevent him from accepting the benefits of it.

"Neither should the conscience of that man be permitted to refuse rendering the dues in payment for the benefits he has received. The Scriptures teach us that the man who refuses to work shall not eat. The man who will accept the benefits of citizenship, which are upheld by force behind the law, should be deprived of the right of citizenship when he refuses to assist in upholding the structure on which his citizenship depends."

Right here at home this rings true.
"All is not gold that glitters" has been proven from time immemorial. There are disloyal citizens among us today at home that need care and attention.
Perhaps the old saying, "The mills of the Gods grind slowly, but they grind extremely fine," may have results.
Still the fact remains that the parents of boys in the service resent the ultra patriotic demonstrations of those who have no one of their blood in the service, who have children who have evaded service by hook or crook, neither enlisted or been accepted by the draft and whose sympathies are known to be anti-American. This class can grow from sympathy to outwardly, but inwardly there is the rub that hurts—the general public knows how they feel.

There are many business and professional men in Rock county who would offer their services to the government willingly in whatever capacity they could serve, were it not for the fact that they can not care for their families while away. Yet there are others who have an income and income who are of the draft age, who have escaped service through technicalities. It makes an unsettled condition of mind and as a consequence we find the pro-German element becoming more daring and more persistent in their claims for attention.

Sooner or later the government will pick up a lot of the loose threads that now hang down from the finished work. They will divide the goats from the sheep and the goats will find it scanty picking on the sterile hills.
Meanwhile we must grin and bear the open flaunts of the anti-administrationists whether they are leaders in the bond selling campaign, prominent in various Red Cross or other organizations, for pride always goes before the fall and we are in this war, not for today or tomorrow, but for some time to come. Ultimately the end will be one of victory for the cause of democracy and safety of this nation, and the world, but meanwhile we must suffer in silence.

Governor Phillips does not intend to permit any stone to stand in the way of putting it up squarely and fairly to the state legislature when they are called in special session, that question of the United States senatorship.
He is right about it, for the hue and cry that has been evoked against giving him the appointive power has come most directly from the La Follette element, who would seek to gain control of the state and prove its citizens disloyal if they could.

Lord Lansdowne has made public a very foolish letter. It is similar in nature to utterances in the United States senate and the lower house by Wisconsin members of congress relative to the war, and like their utterances, has been repudiated by the country at large. England does not stand for such temporizing, and when the final accounting comes it will be found England has done its share.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest.

THE CHAPLAIN.
He was just a small church parson when the war broke out, and he looked and dressed and acted like all parsons that we see.
He wore the cleric's broadcloth and he hooked his vest behind.
But he had a man's resolve, and he had a strong man's mind.
And he heard the call to duty, and he quit his church and went.
And he bravely tramped right with them everywhere the boys were sent.

He put aside his broadcloth and he put the khaki on.
Said he'd come to be a soldier and was going to live like one.
Then he referred the prize fights that the boys pulled off at night.
And if no one else was handy he'd put on the gloves and fight.
He wasn't there a fortnight ere he saw the soldiers' needs.
And he said: "I'm done with preaching; this is now the time for deeds."

He learned the sound of shrapnel, he could tell the size of shell.
From the shriek it made above him, and he knew just where it fell.
In the front line trenches he stood,
and he knew the feel of mud.
And he didn't run from danger and he wasn't scared of blood.
He wrote letters for the wounded, and he cheered them with his jokes.
And he never made a visit without passing round the smokes.
Then one day a bullet got him, and he knelt beside a lad

Who was "going west" right speedy, and they both seemed mighty glad.
Cause he held the boy's hand tight-and he smiled and whispered low.
"Now you needn't fear the journey, over there with you'll go."
And they both passed out together.
And in an arm we think they went.
He had kept his vow to follow everywhere the boys were sent.

REVOLUTION OVER.
DECLARES OBREGON

The Great Applan Way, Built by Ap-plus Claudius.

"All roads lead to Rome," said a Latin proverb. When Paul and his companions, after the adventurous journey in which they suffered shipwreck on the island of Malta, landed in Italy, they found brethren in Puteoli, now called Pozzuoli, near Naples, and "were desired to tarry with them seven days," and then the narrator of the journey says "we went toward Rome." Luke does not tell us by what road they traveled, but we can be sure that it was by the great Applan way, already 300 years old, which was built by Appius Claudius, a Roman censor, from Rome to Capua, a point not very far from the port where the prisoners landed. From Capua to Rome was a distance of 125 miles. Paul and his companions probably walked the whole distance, but were met at the Three Taverns, seventeen miles from Rome, and at Appii Forum, or the market of Appius, ten miles from Rome, by delegations from the infant church in Rome. This great highway was built of heavy stone laid in cement and averaged about twenty feet wide.
Parts of the road are still in excellent preservation. The Three Taverns are identified by some ruins which are pointed out to the modern tourist as the remains of the station at which Paul was met by his loving brethren from Rome, who had received news of his coming, probably by the system of posts which penetrated to all parts of the empire and resembled the modern postoffice and through the Acts Diurna, or public bulletins on which official matters were posted and which were a prototype of the modern newspaper.

ROADS FOR WAR WORK.

Highway construction and improvement should not be suspended during the war, in the opinion of highway commissioners and others who have given the subject thought. While it may be necessary to curtail the programs for new construction, owing to lack of necessary funds and labor, it is essential that roads of military importance and those needed for moving agricultural and industrial products should be completed and maintained in efficient condition.
Production of foodstuffs and other necessities and of all articles required for prosecution of the war will be much larger in the aggregate than ever before, and it is of vital necessity that the roads already built should be kept in good condition.—National Automobile Chamber of

PLEA FOR NATIONAL ROADS.

System Joining All Parts of the Country Could Be Made to Pay.

Charles Henry Davis, president of the National Highway association, has an article in the Public which emphasizes the national responsibility for good roads and shows how a federal road system joining all parts of the country could be made to pay for its construction and upkeep and make the nation self supporting. He says in part:

"Suppose the federal government did decide to build a system of national roads joining the west with the east, the north and the south, connecting every part of the country, as is the case with the national highways of Europe. History shows us this has been the case with nearly every first class power. Would such a system of roads pay for the building or even for their upkeep? A short calculation shows that by a fair system of taxation they would not only do this, but would also be a very considerable source of national income. Such a tax system would be something like the much disputed single tax, where land alone is taxed regardless of buildings or improvements.

"Suppose the government built 100-000 miles of properly planned roads and at the same time purchased, say, 300 feet of land on either side. With good roads, ready for use all the year around, this land would be bound to increase in value and would be increasingly in demand in town and country.
If the government leased this land on long rental, with protective renewal clauses (another form of single tax), the cost of the roads and the land purchase would be soon paid. On the basis of 100,000 miles of road, bordering land costing, say, $20,000 a mile, or a total of $2,000,000,000, a rental rate of $0.60 per acre would pay the interest on the cost of construction. But much would rent at vastly higher rates, enough to maintain the roads and reimburse the nation for the cost. In fact, and within a reasonable time, these roads should give the nation an income equal to its total annual expenditures.

"Considering that 100,000 miles of national highways would run through towns and cities where real estate is at a premium, our figures are well within the probable results. In addition, improvements would be stimulated everywhere. There would be no tax on buildings bordering the road, merely on the land. And as a result the nation would receive more than enough to run its business for the people and thus become self supporting, as it should. Other nations raise up to 40 per cent of their cost of operation out of profitable business done for the people. Why not ours and thus reduce our taxes?"

SHADE TREES ON ROADSIDES

Nine-Tenths of Highways in New York Entirely Void of Vegetation—Plan to Improve.

By investigations just completed by the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, it has been found that nine-tenths of the roadsides in the rural districts of New York state are entirely void of shade trees. When this is considered along with the fact that last year New York state paid out of the state treasury about $30,000,000 for the construction and maintenance of road beds, it shows that the state is not yet awake to the great need and the great possibilities in rural roadside improvement.

A preliminary survey has just been made by H. R. Francis in charge of the landscape extension work of the College of Forestry.

During the survey, studies were made of such important features in rural roadside improvement and beau-

Shaded Road in New York.

Shade trees as good and bad varieties of trees found along the highways, views and vistas obtained from the highways, the effects of the shade trees on crops in adjacent fields, the possibilities of the covering of barren embankments and the planting of some desirable sort of vegetation where overhead wires are in large numbers. One of the principal features studied was the condition of the roadbed as affected by the presence or absence of shade trees.

Few people in the state will be able to visit the wonderful national parks of the West, but an increasing number of people will own automobiles and use the highways of the state. Many, if not all, of these highways may easily become state parkways of beautiful trees and shrubs. Trees grow like weeds under the climatic conditions existent in New York and with varied scenery of intense interest the highways of the state will eventually become as beautiful as those of any other state in the Union.—Green's

LOGGING TRUCKS MAKE ROAD

One Type of Car Used in Far West Has Front Tires of Ten Inches and Rear Ones of Twenty.

Powerful wide-tired trucks are now being used in logging regions in Oregon and Washington, which virtually make their own roads as they go. One type of these cars is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It has front tires 10 inches wide. An experienced driver carefully selects his course as he goes over a route for the first time and the weight of his machine makes a road as it moves along.
A few trips over the same line of travel serves to make a hard, smooth surface which will withstand considerable bad weather. Four-wheeled trailers are often used with these trucks.

NAMED ASSISTANT TO WAR SECRETARY

Maj. Benedict Crowell.

Maj. Benedict Crowell of Cleveland has been appointed assistant secretary of war to succeed William M. Ingraham. He was associated with the general munitions board of the council of national defense shortly after that body was organized. Recently, however, he has been in charge of the Washington office of the Panama canal.

The Philathea club of the St. Peter's English Lutheran church will give an entertainment on Wednesday, December 5th. Collection will be taken and refreshments served. All invited.

ABEL LODGE FISHER CALLED BY DEATH

Was an Old Resident of Janesville and His Death Will be Mourned by Many.

Abel Lodge Fisher, for many years a resident of Rock county, passed away last Saturday night at his home in Albany, Oregon. Mr. Fisher had been in failing health for almost a year but was about his affairs as usual until the last few weeks, when as the result of a fall and a condition of paralysis he was confined to his home. It is thought paralysis was the cause of his death.

Mr. Fisher was born in Center township in Rock county on December 6, 1850. He was the oldest of a family of eight children born to Seth and Mary Fisher. His record of his education in the common schools of his town, Evansville Seminary, Beloit Academy and Milton college. He engaged in farming in Center township, where he resided until the spring of 1892, and in buying and selling tobacco at Janesville, where he made his home until 1911. Since that time he engaged in the manufacture of furniture at St. Paul, Minnesota, and in the furniture and undertaking business at Albany, Oregon.

Mr. Fisher was a public spirited and enterprising citizen. As state secretary of the Wisconsin Tobacco Growers' and Dealers' association, as president of the Commercial club of Albany, Oregon, and as president of the Willamette Valley League of that state and a member of other organizations with which he was affiliated, he gave generously of his time and means to the advancement of the public interest and the general good.

On October 23, 1917, he was married to Mary Cleland, who passed to the world beyond on January 31, 1915. Mr. Fisher leaves to mourn his death two sons, Arthur M. Fisher of this city and Everett C. Fisher of Albany, Oregon; two daughters, Ethel I. Braden of Albany, Oregon and Minerva M. Davis of Minneapolis, Minnesota; a brother, Grant U. Fisher of this city, and two sisters, Anna C. Norris and Jennie Fisher of Chicago.

Burial will be at Albany, Oregon. John M. Kneff, after a short illness, John M. Kneff, an old and respected citizen, passed to his final home at three o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. Kneff was born in Bavaria, coming to this country when a young man. He was married to Mary Kneff, who would have been eighty-two years of age.

Mr. Kneff leaves a widow and five children, Alfred W. Kneff, and Mrs. Wenzel Kneff of this city, Mrs. Peter St. of St. Paul, Rudolph of La Salle, Ill., and Charles of Kansas City, Mo. Two sons preceded him in death. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church.

Mrs. C. H. Peabody. The mortal remains of Mrs. C. H. Peabody were laid to rest at Oak Hill cemetery this afternoon. The funeral services were conducted by the Reverend Cummings in the home at two thirty o'clock. The pallbearers were Joseph De Franco, Frank Mazzav, Peter Capizzi and Joseph Milazzo.

Dr. G. H. Webster. Dr. G. H. Webster passed away this noon at the home of Michael Buob, 612 Prairie avenue. Dr. Webster has made Janesville his home for some time and his many friends will regret the loss of his services. The remains were taken to the Whaley undertaking rooms. Funeral announcement will be made later.

John Broderick. The Great Reaper Sunday morning called for the soul of John Broderick. He passed away at the Mercy hospital after a brief illness. Mr. Broderick was an old resident of Janesville, coming here sixteen years ago. He was seventy-five years old. He leaves to mourn his loss seven children, Frank Broderick, of Fond du Lac; James Broderick, St. Paul; Mrs. James Whalen, Miss Mary Broderick, Miss Elizabeth, John and Joseph Broderick, all of Janesville. He also leaves two nephews and one sister, Patrick Broderick of Janesville, James Broderick of Albany, and Mrs. Mary O'Donnell of Beloit.

Funeral will be held at eight o'clock from the home, 46 Ringold street, and at nine o'clock from the St. Patrick's church. Interment will be made in the Mt. Olivet cemetery.

CAMP GRANT BOYS GIVEN HARD GRIND

Camp Grant, Ill. Dec. 1.—331st Machine Gun Battalion, Thanksgiving day, but long will it remain in the memories of the men of the 331st Machine Gun Battalion. It was a holiday and one that will be remembered for many years. It was a day of festivities from early morning until late in the evening and there was not a soldier in the battalion who even had a chance to be homesick on Thanksgiving.

Reveille was not sounded until seven o'clock and then in half an hour it was a treat when they were allowed to sleep until after six o'clock in the morning. The morning was spent in playing games of different kinds and getting dressed up for the afternoon. At twelve o'clock the men marched into the mess hall and for an hour contented themselves with eating. The men were not that contented, but they were not that hungry. They had turkey and plenty of it and all other delicacies that go with a Thanksgiving dinner. After dinner the men were treated to a concert which was given by Mr. J. J. Decker of Milton Junction.

Dancing was the main diversion of the afternoon and from one o'clock until five o'clock the men of the battalion were dancing in order and they all claim that they spent a pleasant afternoon. The visitors of the battalion were the men of the 331st Machine Gun Battalion, who did not care to dance with their sweethearts to the Y. M. C. A. and listened to a very good concert given by the band of the 342nd Infantry.

Another surprise was in store for the men when they entered the mess hall for supper and for the second time in one day they were given a sumptuous meal. The big bit of the evening meal was the turkey and the men were high in their praise for the way they were treated on Thanksgiving and all in all they will be glad to spend next Thanksgiving in as comfortable a manner as they spent yesterday.

Wednesday morning the men of the 331st Machine Gun Battalion again returned to the larger range, where they had practice with the machine guns for several hours. The men of the battalion like this kind of work and many of them said that they could go on the range every day.

First call was sounded at 5:30 a. m. and from then on until the men had returned to their barracks they were busy.

Some of the men have shown wonderful progress in handling a machine gun and not a few of them, like the bullet-proof vest, were not allowed to shoot, but those fortunate enough to get the opportunity, proved that at the present stage of the game they can handle a machine gun very well.

A day on the range is not all work, however, for the officers still hold to that old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." The men are given plenty of time to play their favorite game and while one company is shooting, a person would see another bunch of fellows playing football, still another at soccer. The different companies hold running races and other games and when the men are dismissed, after their hike back to the camp, they all know that mixed with the work was several hours of whole some sport.

Camp Notes.—First Sergeant Smith gained another point on Supply Sergeant Gallagher yesterday when he obtained the first prize in the 100 yard race. The company traveled to Janesville to attend his brother-in-law's wedding.

It was a wonderful sight to see the men of the 331st Machine Gun Battalion, who were climbing into the back window of a bus so they would be able to make camp before seven o'clock. Gallagher and McCue had an easy time getting through the crowd, but Thomas Farrell was left out in the cold.

Private Edward McDougough when last seen was enjoying himself dancing with a young lady from Janesville in the lower square room of Co. A. He claims that he can't understand why they don't have more dances of this kind.

The members of Co. C. are still practicing the members of the kitchen staff, including Al Erickson, Otto Blumhagen, Jimmie Collins and Archie Van Norman for the way they set up the Thanksgiving dinner.

Corporal Frank Koehler besides getting the big dinner from the government was seen carrying around three large boxes and a girl which he claims was full of cats. Frank is getting better every day and had better start on a diet for a week or two.

Private Cyrus Montgomery is getting to be the best patron that the roller rink in the city has. Cy has his own skates and that is one reason why he can afford to attend so often.

Corporal Paul Kvale is still getting his long distance telephone calls at his home in the city. He is still getting the party fooled the fellows this morning and called from Orfordville. Paul claims that it is business, and according to the number of calls he receives, he certainly has a tremendous amount of business.

J. P. McCue, who is doing the publicity work for the battalion, was a very busy man yesterday explaining to the men why no Camp Grant news appeared in the paper this week. McCue is kept busy trying to furnish the men with reading material, and the men with reading material, and the men with reading material.

Raymond Gallagher seems to be losing his smile. The men have tried several ways to determine what was the cause of Ray's dejected look, but at this writing they have been unable to do so. I think if Ray got more judges that his smile would return.

Mass Sergeant John Hendricks of Janesville is making a success of his new position and after he gets through with his routine work each day he takes a few cooking lessons from Cook James Collins.

Private Roy Cannon claims that he holds the record for jobs in one day. On returning to the barracks Thursday evening he looked on the bulletin board and found that he was detailed to be room orderly, kitchen porter and also with the coal squad.

When last seen he was hiking to the auditorium to witness the performance of "Oh Boy."

There is one man in the company who is continually meeting people from Detroit. While walking down town last evening the young man glanced around and met a fellow from Detroit whom he had seen in several months. They started at once to renew old friendships and it was with great trouble that the young man left her at the stage door of the Grand theatre.

William Cronin attended the roller rink in Rockford the other evening and from the smile on his face the next morning he must have had a wonderful time. But Bill is dumb when it comes to telling of his time and all the men can do is to guess.

Private Robert Fulleman has received his transfer to the base hospital at Camp Grant. Private Fulleman was well known in Janesville where he worked in a drug store for several years and his new work will be along the same line.

Corporal Smith rested much easier last evening after a day of anxiety as his stolen cigarettes were recovered. Daly claims that the minute his fags were found that his stomach was full. Some hard luck Buck. He was gone from Saturday, Dec. 8th, is another big night for the men of Co. C. for on that evening they hold their dance in Beloit and the Beloit men claim that the dance will be bigger and better than the one given in Janesville.

The members of Company C. through these columns, want to extend their thanks to the Janesville Gazette, the Commercial club and all others who gave their time and money to make the dance in Janesville a success. The men appreciate very much the backing they received in Janesville, and it was proof that the folks back home are with the boys of Co. C. and that helps the men a whole lot.

Private Ray Munger of Beloit was a visitor to the city last evening, to see the sights, but he claimed that he would much rather walk down Grand Avenue in Beloit, with a certain young lady on his arm.

The men of Co. C. were very anxious to get hold of Chicago papers last evening as they wanted to see what boys from their home towns received commissions at the Forest Highway Training Camp. Each time a fellow's name was found it was heralded around the barracks, and if the newly made officers could have heard the cheering and the cheering, they would have known that the men of Co. C. were behind them.

Supply Sergeant Raymond Gallagher and First Sergeant Smith are at the present writing on even terms in their race for supremacy. Howard Smith, however, claims that he will have the edge on Gallagher before the week is over, as he is practicing daily on his ukulele, and Gallagher hasn't even purchased one yet. It is a whisper around, however, that Raymond is contemplating on learning how to throw his voice, but the little fellow would not state the truth of the assertion. The men are all on their toes and it promises to be a spirited contest before the close.

Private William Cronin of Janesville, made his first trip to Rockford, Tuesday, dressed in his new uniform. Bill makes a fine looking soldier, and the men claim that, now that he has his uniform the trips will be frequent.

What a wonderful night! That is the question that the men have been asking Private McCue, Farrell and

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

King Baggett's coming back. Once again he'll move to the orders of a director, while the camera clicks on and while the celluloid excitement tries its way into the magazines. For the first time in more than a year the screen favorite is to appear in a motion picture. More than that, in many motion pictures, for last week King Baggett signed a contract with the Wharton secret service serial by William J. Flynn, chief of the United States secret service, which is to tell the inside of all the diabolical plots which the imperial German government planned against the United States.

King Baggett, who was one of the first real heroes of the screen, said good-bye to the motion picture business a year ago. At that time he did not intend ever to act in a screen drama again. And then—

"What else could I do?" he asked laughingly as he signed the contract which is to make him the hero of twenty episodes for the super-serial. "I've been a personal friend of Chief Flynn for years. My greatest admiration has always been for the secret service. Some way the name always has held a magic something for me. In the days when I was writing my own stories and then playing them I always was the happiest when I could get the idea for a good secret service picture. Then, too, the fact that this new serial is about the biggest thing I've ever struck had its influence also. The result was that I gave up all thought of a speaking stage contract, which I was about to sign, and took the part offered me in this new serial."

William D. Taylor is certainly earning a reputation for fast and efficient work at the Morosco studios in direct in the back of the Pickford stories. He finished the final scenes of "Bunker Bean" recently and immediately started work on "Mile a Minute Kendall," with his youthful star in the leading role, after only one day's rest between pictures. Taylor likes nothing better than to be working all the time and hates to have to lay off preparing a story for any length of time.

Webster Campbell, the Vitaphone "juvenile" lead is one of the few actors who can really write a good photo play. He believes it helps him do his other work. He has had photo plays accepted and produced by several companies, including Vitaphone and American. He favors clean stories.

NOW READY FOR AIRPLANE WORK
Sidney Drew, co-star with Mrs. Drew in Metro-Drew comedies, recently received a letter from his son, S. Rankin Drew, telling of his progress in mastering aviation in France. Young Drew sailed from the United States on May 10. Immediately on reaching the other side, he entered the aviation training school of the French army.

READ THIS LETTER FROM A BOY IN CAMP.

"Dear Madam: I feel it my duty to write you about a matter which I know you are interested in. Out of the thousands of boys at this place I have seen only a few who had a testament."

"What do you think of the idea of the Red Cross trying to furnish some of the boys with testaments? I will gladly give my aid in any way that I can. I should be proud if my little town could have the honor of beginning this cause."

"While I write I hear nothing but oaths and curses. God knows the boys need something to make them think."

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Dec. 3.—Miss Beula Heddies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Heddies, formerly of this city, was united in marriage at the Heddies home at Madison Saturday evening to Ralph Kemp of Frankfort, Indiana. Rev. J. B. Scales of the First Congregational church performed the ceremony in the presence of 150 guests. Miss Beula Heddies attended her sister as maid of honor and Charles Kemp served his brother-in-law as best man. Little Miss Frances Johnson acted as flower girl. The bride was carried by fully decorated with smilax, palms and chrysanthemums. The Thompson orchestra played the wedding march. The bride was gown in white satin veiled with tulle and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Kemp left for the south, where they will spend their honeymoon. The groom is now to but few in the city, but the bride has a large circle of friends in this locality who extend congratulations. Those from Edgerton who attended the wedding were Mrs. Belle Wilcox and son Robert, Helen and Warren Coon.

The weather permitting Edgerton will hold one of the largest dances ever given in the history of the city this evening. As all the ticket sales have not been reported it is impossible at this time to give the correct amount of money taken in so far. Thompson's orchestra of Madison will furnish the music and the proceeds of the dance will be used as a Christmas fund for the soldiers and sailors in the United States service.

The cafeteria supper given last Saturday evening at the high school acted the ladies of the local Red Cross society about $150.00 for their trouble. The money made will be devoted to Christmas cheer for the army and other branches of the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gleave entertained a company of their friends at a Christmas evening. Mrs. Gleave soon leave for Orfordville where Mr. Gleave will superintend one of the Heddies Lumber yards.

B. W. McIntosh, J. Roscoe, H. Stoko, B. D. Dorman and E. Hermandson were among the soldier boys who were in the city from Camp Grant Sunday. The boys came on the morning train Saturday as they had no drill on Sunday on account of the boys' going to Chicago to attend the football game.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-two years old and have a girl friend whom I took out a number of times. I like her very much and she is very respectable and seems to like my company. We wrote to each other some time ago and I asked her for a date and she accepted it, but wrote in her letter that she could not go out with me every Sunday because she had another friend with whom she went out before she went with me, but she didn't tell me that. I am sure she has nothing against me, but she didn't ask me to come to see her, and I want your advice on what to do.

(2) How long must a boy go with a girl before he can ask her for steady company?

WORRIED BOY.

(1) Write to her after a few days and say that you received her letter and that you think she is doing right to consider the other boy's feelings, but that you would like to go with her once in a while and ask if she will make a date for some night soon. Say that if next Sunday is taken, that you would like to see her the Sunday after. If she still does not want to, you will see the date, don't persist, but you will see some other girl.

(2) It depends on the circumstances. In general several months would be long enough.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-four years old and I have two dear little boys. My mother and father died when I was very young and so I had to go to work when I was fourteen years old. My life was hard and I got married when I was sixteen years old.

THINGS THAT MAKE A NOSE FULL

Speaking the other day of simple acute rhinitis (vulgarly known as chronic catarrh) we explained how bad air deteriorates the tone of the circulation in the lining of the breathing tract, and we explained how bad air, in the hygienic sense, in any air that is artificially heated above 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

Other factors are concerned in the causation of chronic rhinitis. Coddling is an easy second to bad air. Coddling works precisely like bad air. Every little bit added to what comfort actually demands makes just a little bit more of the poor, suffocated, unexercised and unventilated human hide can endure. Clothes are a predisposing cause of respiratory disease of all kinds. Clothing is worn by Eskimos for necessary warmth; clothes are worn by most American citizens for any other reason. Our skin is constantly smothered with much clothing and incarcerated in its own excretions.

When more clothing than physical comfort demands is worn in any effect is delayed in the little arteries of the skin, excessive perspiration from congestion of the sweat glands, too rapidly cooling of the body upon the first sudden change, and consequently the engorgement of all consequent organs. Now, we have no particular reason to suppose that the breathing tube suffers more from such engorgement than the alimentary tube, but the breathing tube suffers the brunt of it.

Excessive clothing puts the vasomotor nervous system to sleep on the job. Coddling is a substitute for reaction to sudden temperature changes becomes less and less active. Wear a chest protector or a throat muffler or overshoe a season and you become more and more sensitive to atmospheric variations, because your vasomotor nerves no longer have good control of your circulation. They have been legislated out of office.

Clothing is an artificial substitute for the fur or hair which once served to protect the race through the cold and rainy seasons. We lost most of that coat when we mounted upon our hind feet and learned to walk. The new coat, however, is a poor substitute for the old one. That is purely a weakness of civilized man, and civilization leads the world in his weakness.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt was answer in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a person's answer is desired, please enclose a two-cent stamp.)

When traveling, passengers should not monopolize the dressing-room for a long time. Good form requires that they finish bathing and dressing as quickly as possible and leave room for others.

H. R. H. When you call for a lady to escort her to some entertainment you should go early enough to allow for a few minutes of conversation before she puts on her wraps. She need not have them on when you arrive, unless she knows for some good reason you are likely to be late. You should not remove your overcoat, as you will stay in the house for only a few minutes, and you may keep your hat and your right glove in your left hand throughout your stay.

VIOLET: You must not hold hands with your escort in a theatre, even if it is a movie and sure to be dark. It is a very silly thing to do and most undignified. The people in your neighborhood are sure to find it out, and you must not allow the young man you are with to place his arm across the back of your seat or occupy, either in a theatre or a street car.

HOME HINTS FOR SAVING MONEY IN WARTIME

Mutton tallow, carefully rendered, may be used instead of paraffin. Any cold cereal can be put into the mutton pot when making corn meal mush. Soap should be bought in quantities; remove the wrapper and allow it to dry. The good housewife will not allow even one slice of bread a day to be wasted. Four eggs to a quart of milk make a good custard. Pickles better on the bottom if they are in tin plates. Cottage cheese is a good dish to make out of skim milk. Cakes with molasses in them bake more quickly than others. Creamed carrots with peas make a nourishing dish for lunch. Rye porridge with rich milk is an excellent breakfast cereal. Apples can be stewed without sugar and they are very good. All superfluous fat should be trimmed from meat and dried out. A full meal should not be served if the sugar is put under the fruit. Marinade should be put on puddings after they are slightly cooled. If you wish to buy fish, choose that which is caught in home waters. Graham bread spread with salad dressing and a lettuce leaf is an excellent sandwich. Cold lima beans mashed, seasoned and a few minced olives added make a good sandwich. Suet may be kept fresh by chopping roughly and crumbling it with a little granulated sugar. Put red peppers in vinegar and bottle for the purpose and use with very dry baked beans. Drop a cream peppermint in a cup of hot water, and you have a sort of after-dinner cordial which isn't open to the objection of expense. Soften made with cream and cheese will take the place of meat. The economical housewife places a weekly limit on food expenditure.

PRUNE LOAF.

Half box gelatin soaked in one-half cup cold water, one-half pound dried prunes cooked until they slip from seeds, one-quarter pound each of raisins, currants, salt, grated rind and juice of one lemon. Mix all together; add one pint boiling water, and one cup sugar. Put on stove, let boil, and add cold water and half cup chopped nuts. Pour into molds, set away to harden, and serve with whipped cream. This amount will serve twelve persons. It is best to make this the day before.

CANNED APPLES.

Apples canned in this way are easy to keep and are almost as good for diet as sauce or new apples. To one gallon of water add two cups sugar. When boiling put in apples which have been cut in thick slices. Allow them to cook until well softened, but not soft. Put in sterilized jars and fill to overflowing with the hot water, and seal. Add more apples and proceed until water is used. One gallon of water will can eight quarts. Will keep well without sugar, but a little is an improvement.

Letters to Two Women

by Zoe Beckley

THE BREAK.

KERRYVILLE, Wednesday night.

I have left my husband! I am at Bessie Kane's. I am coming on to New York. Where shall I begin? Where will this end? I am in a whirl and I'm not sure whether you will understand me. I don't understand myself.

Let me begin at the beginning—and yet, where did all begin? Because it all came like a bolt out of the sky. I was since my mother left I have had no corrective for my moods. Mother used to know when to come to me and say, "Matie, I think you'd better put on your coat and come for a walk." Or, "I am all snarled up in my knitting. Straighten this out for me with your young fingers, will you?" She could tell when one of my frequent brain storms was brewing and would save me from them.

I suppose the prairie has got on my nerves. The prairie, the drudgery, the monotony, my mother gone. New York calling me in your letters, Curtis utterly oblivious that I lack anything, his mother's hearty convictions that I have everything I need, and perhaps more than I desire. Oh, I suppose I can't make myself clear. At any rate here is what happened:

Baby had been fretful for some nights past. Nothing serious, but he would not sleep. I had been feeling a little better than ever at the bank. His mother busier than ever making me feel how far short I fell of what her son's wife should be. I have been feeling a little better than ever at the bank. His mother busier than ever making me feel how far short I fell of what her son's wife should be.

I asked Curtis after dinner whether he would not take me to town to a moving picture, about the time of the Epworth League night at the church. He was to lead the men's glee club at the "concert" which was to follow the minister's address.

What next? I don't know. I tell myself I am going to New York. I hate to take baby away from Curtis. It seems like theft. But baby or not, I am coming to New York. Kit-Curtis comes to take me back tonight to that farm house (they) have to put bars in the windows and a straight-jacket about me. I know I shall go mad.

Listen, Kit. Bessie Kane tried to induce me to go right back to Curtis for the station. Then she called me back. Dear, if you don't want me to head for Chicago or San Francisco don't write me to go back. I will not go back to that farm house and that complacent, covertly sneering woman.

GERMAN LOANS SUCCESS BUT HAVE FEW SUBSCRIBERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Copenhagen, Dec. 3.—Tabulation of subscriptions to the seventh German loan show that over a fourth of the total of twelve and a half billions was contributed in subscriptions of over a million marks each, 1,032 subscribers averaging over three millions.
The sixth loan had only 770 subscribers in the super-million class. There was a marked decrease in the number of small subscribers as well as the total number of subscribers.
The only classes showing an increase in the number of subscribers or total subscribed are those above half a million which are responsible for over a third of the loan. These figures are indicative to the extent to which the loan was subscribed by war supply interests.

SCOTCH FIRMS MANUFACTURE LIMBS FOR MAIMED SOLDIERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

An Engine That Digests Low-Grade Gas and Makes High Power Out of It

The thing about the great Chalmers engine that counts is the fact that it actually digests the gas fed to it (and low-grade gas especially).

Everyone knows now that the grade of gasoline is on the decline, and that probably high-grade gas, or even the gas of a year ago, will never come back. And like a man who has been on a high-grade diet and is suddenly given a low-grade diet, many engines in automobiles now have gasoline indigestion.

The Chalmers engine digests gas probably as no engine ever before has done. It makes high power out of low-grade gas.

It makes gasoline work harder than gasoline ever worked before.

Anyone who knows anything about an engine knows that the everlasting riddle has been to get the gas in just exactly a 100% condition of vapor in the combustion chamber before ignition.

The great Chalmers engine has accomplished this, so far as any engine probably ever will be able to do, by means of two clever devices.

One is a "hot spot" feature which heats and "breaks up" the gas after it leaves the carburetor and before it gets to the intake manifold. The other is the "ram s-horn" manifold that, by means of its "easy air bends," sends the gas to the combustion chamber well-nigh perfect.

Hence, more power out of less gas.

On a cold day remarkably quick results in starting are obtained.

No longer a 10-minute fight with your engine. And as soon as the Chalmers engine starts it runs smoothly and delivers power quickly.

Often cars take ten minutes of running to "warm them up."

But not so with the current Chalmers.

And if you weren't a shrewd judge of an automobile, you might overlook some of the other notable features of the current Chalmers, so great has become the achievements of its engine.

Go down to our salesroom and let us show you the great Chalmers engine and the perfection of the current Chalmers.

Send One to the Boy--Keep One at Home

THIS Diary fixes time and place of important events.

Bewildering experiences rush with confusion through the minds of soldiers and sailors. Many a soul-thrilling scene would be forgotten if it were not recorded while fresh in memory.

For accurately recording individual experiences during the war the Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary is the most serviceable, most durable book in existence. On land or sea it will always be a most cherished possession and will last a life-time.

THE Sound-Spelling Method of the Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary is the most advanced means of teaching language.

It presents first the English word; then its French equivalent; and then, spelled out in English syllables, comes the French word as it sounds to English ears. Exhaustive tests prove this method so simple that even a child readily acquires French with correct pronunciation.

Interchange of ideas with the French people will broaden the soldier's horizon and ability to speak French will be a life-long business and social asset.
